Historical Meet In Philly Attended By Two History Dept. Instructors

Dr. A. Stanley Trickett and Professor O. W. Drapeau represented Omaha University in attendance at the annual meeting of the American Historical Society held this year in Philadelphia from Dec. 27 to 29.

Important events of the meeting are "paper sessions". During these sessions, scholars present research papers which they have prepared during the year. In this way, specialists, studying particular periods of history, can extend their findings to hundreds of other historians.

Following the reports, commentaries are made on the papers and the scholars present at the meeting are invited into an open discussion about the material presented.

This meeting is annually one of the largest professional gatherings in the area of historical societies. This year an attendance of 2,200 historians was recorded.

Past Student to Return; Receive Special Award

Chamber Of Commerce Head To Give Commencement Talk

Edwin P. Neilan, a former student, will return to give the mid-year commencement speech, and receive an Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree.

Mr. Neilan will be speaking to 516 graduates, the largest mid-year class in the university's 55-year history. Commencement will be Saturday, January 25, at 10 a.m., in the fieldhouse.

His topic will be, "Your Role In Self Government".

Mr. Neilan, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is Chairman and President of the Bank of Delaware, Wilmington, Delaware.

The commencement speaker was born in Michigan; spent his early years in Leeds, Iowa, and Omaha, Nebraska. He was graduated from Omaha Central high school in 1923. He attended the University of Omaha two years, and then, because of lack of funds, worked for a year as a carpenter's apprentice.

and Trust Company. He became chief trust examiner with the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas in 1933, and between 1936 and 1940 he served as a field examiner for the Federal Reserve Banks of New York and Philadelphia. He joined the Bank of Delaware as associate trust officer in 1940.

Mr. Neilan was promoted to Vice President and Secretary, Director and Chairman of the Trust Committee in 1946, and became Executive Vice-President in 1952. In 1956, he became President and in 1959 was elevated to Chairman of the Board and President.

In devoting considerable time to civic affairs, Mr. Neilan has worked at all levels—local, state, regional and national. He has served as board chairman, director, delegate, advisor, trustee and president of numerous organizations in the state of Delaware and the nation.

Since 1955, he has served on many committees and boards of the United States Chamber of Commerce. He has been a member of the National Chamber's Board of Directors since April, 1959; was elected Vice President on May 1, 1962.

Mr. Neilan holds an honorary degree of Doctor of Science in business administration from Bryant College, Providence, Rhode Island; and in November of the past year received the Gold Medal Award from the West Side Association of Commerce in New York for the "Outstanding American, 1963."

Speaker Neilan

Mr. Neilan moved to Texas with his family. In 1928 he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration from Rice Institute. He also completed a three-year program in the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University.

Mr. Neilan's banking career began during his senior year at Rice when he became a railroad analyst in the Investment Department of the Houston Bank

"Criminal Behavior" Course Offered For Next Semester

by Tom Behrens

"Psychology of Criminal Behavior," a new course being offered the second semester, will be instructed by a newcomer at Omaha University, Dr. James M. Reinhardt. Though new to this campus, Dr. Reinhardt has spent the last 12 years teaching Sociology and Psychology in the Nursing School, University of Nebraska, College of Medicine.

The course carries a sociology credit and is in the field of Criminology. "It is basically a course designed to deal with the abnormal criminal personality and unusual crimes," said Gayland I. Kuchel, assistant professor of Sociology.

Dr. Reinhardt graduated from Berea College in 1923 and went on in graduate work at Chicago University and South Dakota University. He received his M.

A. and Ph.D degrees at South Dakota University.

Seventy articles and nine books have been written by Dr. Reinhardt. "Social Psychology", "Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes", and "The Murderous Trial of Charles Starkweather" are three of the books.

Dr. Reinhardt is affiliated with the American Criminology Society. Among his numerous awards are the Holmes-Weatherly (1957) and the Distinguished Citizen Award (1961).

Special services of Dr. Reinhardt include consultant on the Nebraska State Pardon Board and consultant of Administration of Nebraska State Penitentiary, delegate at large, White House Invitation, Washington D. C., and Governor's representative, Attorney General's Parole Conference, Washington, D. C.

Geography Club's Theme: "Any Place In The World Of Interest To Members"

"Any place in the world" is of interest to the members of the Geography Club at Omaha University. The club, which is open to all students was originated by the faculty members of the geography department. Dr. Gordon Schilz, head of the geography department, is chief sponsor of the club.

"Fletcher's Ice Island T-3" is just one of the many topics which have been lectured on by a student. The lecturer had served for 18 months as communications chief on the island in the Arctic.

People, cultures, and the ideology of a region are presented by lecturers speaking on countries. Dr. Schilz gave a talk on "Burma and Its People" at a recent meeting. He has also given a talk on Ethiopia where he once lived.

Jim Bagli, a journalism major, served as first president of the club. Talks range from countries in the West to remote regions in the Far East.

The Geography Club meets monthly in the Student Center for a business meeting, lecture, and refreshments. No dues are charged to members but contributions are given for the refreshments.

Approximately 35 members are in regular attendance at the meetings.

Its a pleasure to arrive at Omaha University on wintry mornings when fresh snow causes ice packed streets, traffic jams and a number of other driving hazards.

Students, instructors and members of the administrative staff; in short, everyone who drives a car onto campus knows that on snowy mornings, he can expect the roads to be clear, the sidewalks shoveled and walkways open for use.

Certainly every driver, who has maneuvered his way through several miles of dangerous and temper tempting road conditions, appreciates this effort and courtesy. However, it is probable that these drivers are not at all aware of just how much time and effort the job demands.

A crew of five men and the supervisor at the Physical Plant Department are responsible for keeping the roads on campus clear to handle the day's traffic with as little confusion as possible, regardless of the snow.

If the snow should begin in the evening, a close watch is kept by the night watchman who notifies John Brosnihan, Physical Plant supervisor, when the campus streets become slippery and hinder the steady movement of traffic.

Brosnihan calls a contractor to blade all of the drives and the large parking lots. He then calls his crew back to work. The men work continuously, night and day, in order to keep the drives open constantly, until the snow or wind subsides.

Two of the men drive tractors and clear smaller areas. At the same time, an international truck, with attached spreader puts down a mixture of calcium and sand. From three to five tons of this mixture is deposited on campus grounds each time it snows, or whenever it is necessary.

While driveways and parking lots are being cleared, the rest of the crew is shoveling off sidewalks and opening the walkways in the parking lots. Custodians, who have regular jobs inside the buildings often assist with shoveling if the job is moving slowly.

Brosnihan stated, "Parking lots are the most difficult to clear because of cars that are often stalled. It's awkward to clear snow around them."

Normally the snow is scooped to the sides of the drives and left there to melt. However, when an exceptionally heavy snowfall accumulates, the excess snow can be deposited into large ditches located on the east and west sides of campus.

To provide the best possible snow-removal service, the dept. always has the equipment and supplies ready for use. From 14 to 16 tons of sand is kept in reserve on campus at all times. A gasoline propelled utility elevator loads the sand into trucks.

The five-man crew put in a total of 38 hours in two days, last weekend, while cleaning campus of the most recent snowfall. These men worked 28 hours on Friday and 10 hours on Sunday. And, on Monday morning, traffic was moving along smoothly at OU.

In the near future the organization plans to honor the Scholar of the Month. Second semester freshmen and sophomores with the highest accumulative average in each college will be eligible.

Homemakers Sample Own Food At Dinner

The Home Economics Club tested its own progress in cooking at the annual continental dinner on January 9.

Members chose an American food and decorations theme, cooked the meal then sat down and feasted from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Red, white and blue decorations greeted the girls, who were both the hostesses and the guests. Other guests included Home Economics Department members Miss Margaret Kilian, Mrs. Phyllis Armstrong and Miss Carolyn Kundel.

Any OU student majoring or minoring in home economics may join the club. This year's officers are Jean Royer, President; Liz Encell, vice President; Jeri Klingforth, Secretary; Evonne Tesar, Treasurer and Shirley Johnson, Publicity.

Bootstrappers Give Trophies For OU Intra-mural Sports

Trophies were presented to Dr. Francis Hurst, professor of Psychology, Kenneth Nehmer, assistant professor of Art, and Bernard Behers, CAE, by the Pen and Sword Society. The trophies, named in honor of Hurst, Nehmer and Behers, will be presented to OU. They will be used as revolving trophies in the intra-mural sports program.

The trophies were presented last Friday evening at a Bootstrapper party sponsored by Pen and Sword. Nearly 300 bootstrappers attended the event at the Prom Town House.

Proceeds from door prize ticket sales will be given to the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Memorial Scholarship fund. It will be over 100 dollars.

Senior members of the Executive Council of Pen and Sword, graduating in the Mid-Year Commencement, officially retired in favor of junior officers. An election will soon be held to fill the offices.

The Donato N. Vincent Scholarship has grown to nearly 1,000 dollars. The fund was established by Pen and Sword to help an AFROTC junior in his senior year at OU.

A GUIDE FOR THE GUIDERS

One of the most interesting academic theories advanced in many a long year has recently been advanced by that interesting academic theorist, E. Pluribus Ewbank, Ph. D. who holds the chair of Interesting Academic Theories at the St. Louis College of Footwear and Educational Philosophy. Dr. Ewbank said in the last issue of the learned journal, the Mount Rushmore Guide to Scholastic Advancement and Presidents' Heads, that we might be approaching the whole problem of student guidance from the wrong direction.

Dr. Ewbank, a highly respected pedagogue and a lifelong smoker of Marlboro Cigarettes, (I mention Marlboros for two reasons: first, to indicate the scope of Dr. Ewbank's brainpower. Out of all the dozens of brands of cigarettes available today, Dr. Ewbank has had the wit and taste to pick the one with the most flavorful flavor, the most filtracious filter, the most soft soft pack, the most flip top Flip Top box: I refer, of course, to Marlboro. The second reason I mention Marlboro is that I get paid to mention Marlboro in this column, and the laborer, you will agree, is worthy of his hire.)

But I digress. To return to Dr. Ewbank's interesting theory, he contends that most college guidance counselors are inclined to take the easy way out. That is to say, if a student's aptitude tests show a talent for, let us say, math, the student is encouraged to major in math. If his tests show an aptitude for poetry, he is directed toward poetry. And so forth.

All wrong, says Dr. Ewbank. The great breakthroughs, the startling innovations in, let us say, math, are likely to be made not by mathematicians—whose thinking, after all, is constrained by rigid rules and principles—but by mavericks, by nonconformists, by intuitors who refuse to fall into the rut of reason. For instance, set a poet to studying math. He will bring a fresh, unfettered mind to the subject, just as a mathematician will bring the same kind of approach to poetry.

By way of evidence, Dr. Ewbank cites the case of Cipher Binary, a youth who entered college with brilliant test scores in physics, chemistry, and the calculus. But Dr. Ewbank forced young Cipher to major in poetry.

The results were astonishing. Here, for example, is young Cipher's latest poem, a love lyric of such originality that Lord Byron springs to mind. I quote:

*He was her logarithm,
She was his cosine.
Taking their dog with 'em.
They hastened to go sign
Marriage vows which they joyfully shared,
And wooed and wed and pi squared.*

Similarly, when a freshman girl named Elizabeth Barrett Sigafoos came to Dr. Ewbank to seek guidance, he ignored the fact that she had won the Pulitzer prize for poetry when she was eight, and insisted she major in mathematics. Again the results were startling. Miss Sigafoos has set the entire math department agog by flatly refusing to believe that six times nine is 54. If Miss Sigafoos is correct, we will have to re-think the entire science of numbers and—who knows?—possibly open up vistas as yet undreamed of in mathematics.

Dr. Ewbank's unorthodox approach to student guidance has so impressed his employers that he was fired last week. He is currently selling beaded moccasins at Mount Rushmore.

Incredible Indians Increase CIC Lead

Fabulous Faculty Five Falls Prey To Hot Students

A well-conditioned team composed of 19 faculty members surprised student basketballers during the first half and held a 16-14 advantage in the faculty-student basketball game held last Friday in the Fieldhouse. Benefits from the game went to the JFK Scholarship fund.

Word has it that the faculty team "pooped out" during the second half, giving way to the more experienced courtmanship of the student squad. The final buzzer saw the score at a close 34-32 in favor of the students while the Faculty looked "relieved" that the contest had ended.

Serving as referees for the fiasco were Louie Miloni and Bill Campbell.

Sigma Phi Epsilon captured the Intramural Basketball crown last Friday by dumping the Pi Kaps 44-38, Sig Eps led all the way and were really never threatened. Larry Hammer, Sig Ep and John Coschka, Pi Kap led scorers with 14 points; Sig Eps Jerry Miller totaled 13 for runner-up.

TKE continues to hang onto the Intramural Bowling lead despite stern opposition from Bootstrapper No. 1. Only ½ game separate the two with TKE at 45½-10½ and the Boots 45-10.

The regular Intramural Basketball season has drawn to a close but according to Intramural Director Bert Kurth some important makeup games for League Champions have yet to be played.

In League No. 1, the Darts and Zekes were to square off in a title match last Monday night. Also scheduled for the same evening were the Eagles and Lit Pikes to determine the champ of League No. 3.

The Intramural Basketball tournament is scheduled for early in the second semester.

Matmen Lose Close Decision To Ft. Hays

"Experience is a hard taskmaster but a thorough one" is a comment that wrestling coach Don Benning may be giving his grapplers. The matmen sporting a 1-4 record have had six freshmen, a sophomore, and junior starting in the past two matches.

The wrestlers, although loser to Fort Hays 14-12 Saturday night, showed great improvement and were in the match until the final event. The Indians went into the final match with a 12-11 lead after Gerry Shook, Jim Fuxa, Phil Goduto and Rich Tomasek had scored three-point decisions. Paul Cullen, filling in for the injured Jimmy Jones (possible cracked rib) dropped the heavyweight match to Jim Tinkler 6-0.

Last week the Indians fell to power-laden Moorhead State (Minn.) 24-5 at Moorhead. Bucking one of the best small college teams in the country, the matmen gained their only points on a decision by Gerry Shook (130 lb) and a draw by Jim Fuxa (137 lb). The Indians will be at home February 7 when they entertain Graceland.

Books Up Next For 'Bandits'

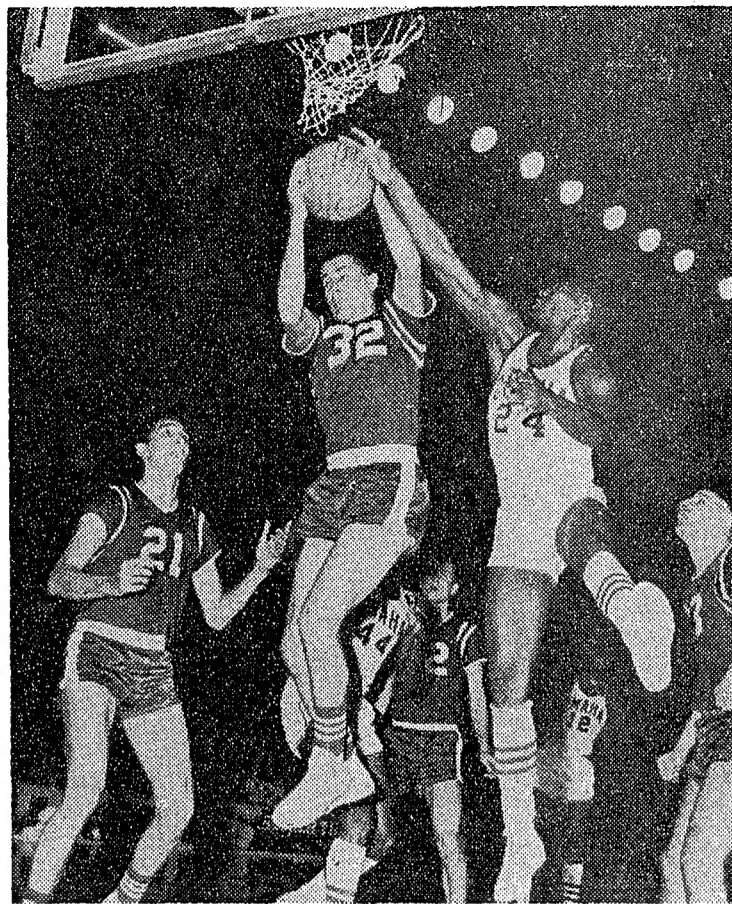

Basketball coach Jim Borsheim with the CIC basketball lead in hand now has only semester finals and a rough road trip to worry about. After his Indian basketballers take a break for finals, "Borsheim's Bandits" will take on Emporia State Jan. 25 and Northeast Missouri Jan. 27 in road games. They will return here for a home engagement against Rockhurst College on January 30.

The Indians avenged an earlier loss to Pittsburg State Monday night and further padded their CIC lead. The final tally was 79-73 after the game had been tied five times and was close generally throughout.

Charlie Myers proved the stand-out of the game as he fired for 32 points. His accuracy at the free throw line was great as he hit an amazing 14 out of 15. The fouls that OU drew counted heavily in the win as they took 41 free tosses and made 33.

Pittsburg trailed by 39-33 at half time but were not to be pushed aside in the second half as they came to within two points with about two minutes remaining 72-70. Tre desperate attempts by the Gorillas to get the ball in the closing minutes squelched the possibilities of a win as they fouled often. Charlie hit five free shots near the end.

Pittsburg kept the game from being a run-away however as they dominated the boards from the smaller hosts, behind rebounding of 6'5" Jim Chroust.

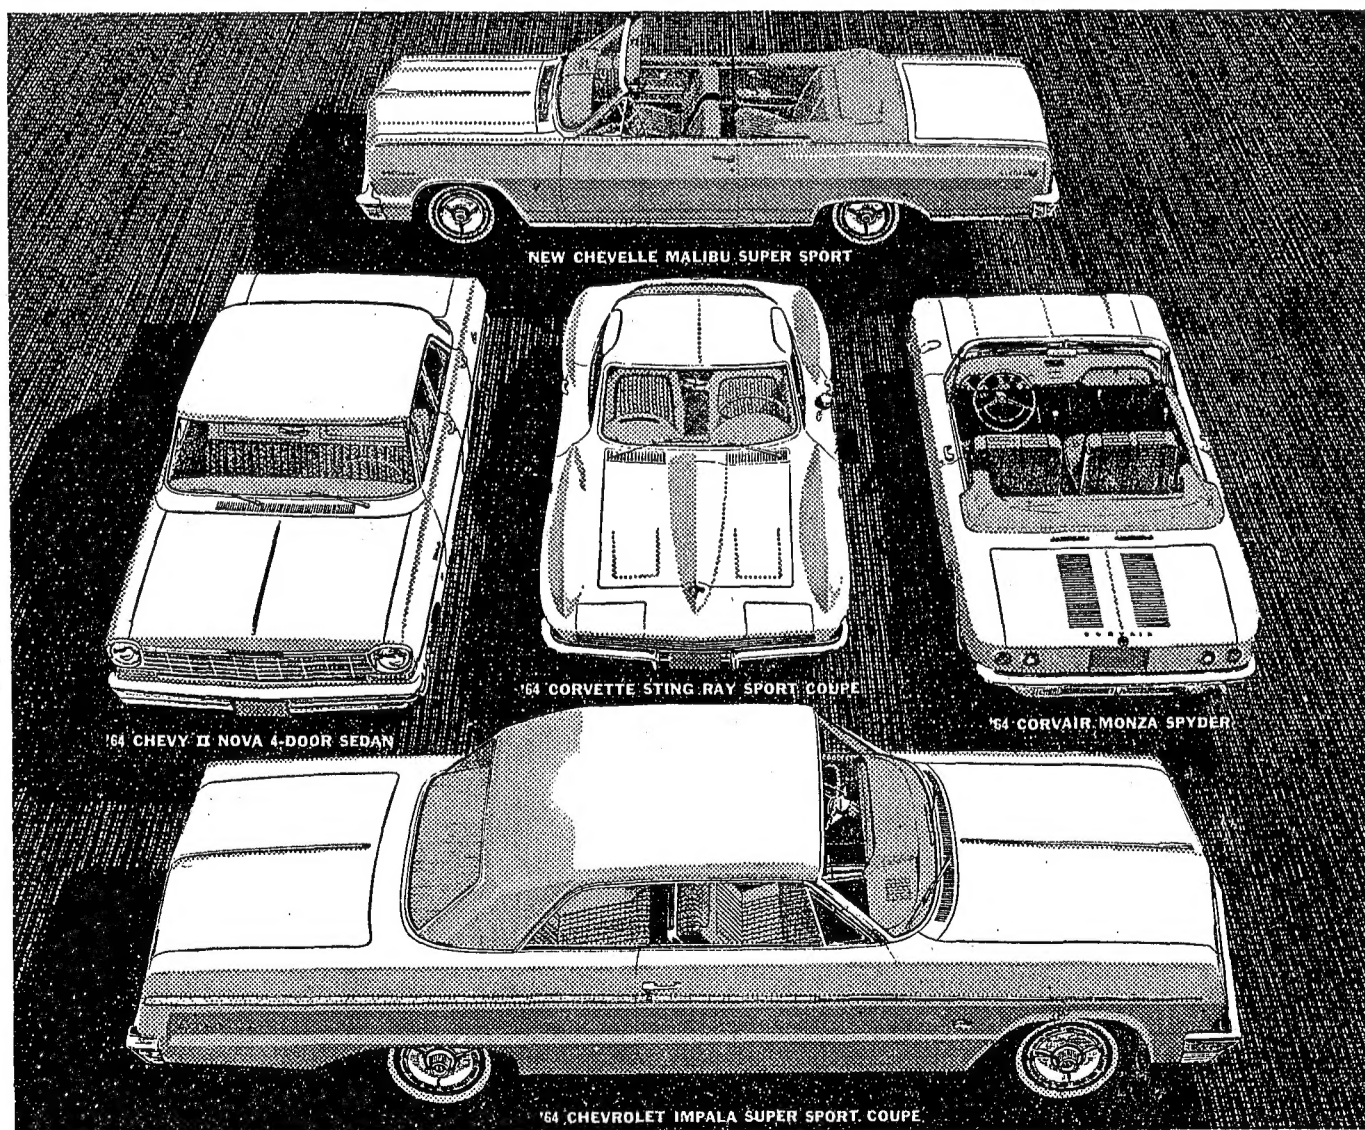

"Butch" Cribbs tries for rebound against Pittsburg.

Sam Singleton was second high scorer with 20.

Jim Borsheim's "Hatchetmen" copped the scalp of Washburn's Ichabods, 78-58, Saturday night and moved into the undisputed lead of the CIC. The tall and confident Ichabods fell to the hungry defense of Paul Kaster, and Charlie and Jimmy Myers and the hot shooting hands of Mike Demkowski and Sam Singleton.
